CELEBRATING TEN YEARS

COMMUNITY • CULTURE • CONSERVATION

Tonight, we celebrate a remarkable milestone—ten years of Whittemore.

Ten years of bringing people together.

Ten years of art and music, gardens and trails, food and friendship, wellness and education.

Ten years of protecting and sharing this extraordinary landscape.

Ten years of creating a place where people can gather, discover, learn, reflect, celebrate and connect with nature and with one another.

What began as a vision has grown into a vibrant community, made possible by the countless people who have believed in Whittemore and helped shape what it has become.

Tonight, we celebrate them.

We celebrate the artists, musicians, chefs, educators, gardeners, conservationists, volunteers, partners, sponsors, donors, friends and neighbors who have been part of our story.

We celebrate all that has been accomplished.

And together, we look forward to all that is still to come.

A LETTER FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

Tonight, as we celebrate ten years of Whittemore – Community, Culture & Conservation, I find myself thinking not only about how far we have come, but about all of the people who made this journey possible.

Whittemore has always been more than a place.

It is 180 acres of gardens, trails, meadows, forests and gathering spaces, but what gives Whittemore its life is the community that fills them.

Over the past decade, we have watched children discover the natural world, artists share their work, musicians fill our gardens with song, neighbors gather around food, volunteers care for our landscape, and people find moments of peace and reflection along our trails and at our Mindful Labyrinth. We have welcomed conversations, celebrations, learning, creativity and connection—all rooted in our commitment to Community, Culture & Conservation.

Our idea of culture has grown far beyond the walls of a gallery. At Whittemore, culture is art and music. It is food and storytelling. It is wellness and education. It is sharing a meal through Food Makes Friends, listening to a concert in the gardens, discovering an artist's work, walking quietly through the woods, or watching a child experience something in nature for the very first time.

Conservation is equally at the heart of everything we do. Our gardens, trails, pollinator habitats, beehives, meadows and natural spaces remind us that stewardship is not simply about preserving land. It is about creating opportunities for people to understand it, care for it and feel connected to it.

None of this happens alone.

Whittemore exists because of an extraordinary community of partners, sponsors, donors, artists, musicians, chefs, teachers, instructors, gardeners, volunteers, board members, staff, our Junior Team and friends who continue to give their time, creativity, expertise and generosity.

To each of you: thank you.

Thank you for believing that this place matters. Thank you for helping us grow. Thank you for showing up, participating, volunteering, donating, creating, teaching, planting, cooking, performing and sharing Whittemore with others.

This anniversary is not simply a celebration of what we have accomplished. It is a moment to look ahead.

There is still so much more we can do.

As we begin Whittemore's next decade, we will continue to expand opportunities for education, the arts, music, wellness, conservation and community connection while caring for the landscape that makes all of it possible.

My hope is that Whittemore will always remain a place where people can come together, experience something meaningful and leave feeling a little more connected—to nature, to one another and to themselves.

Tonight, we celebrate ten remarkable years.

More importantly, we celebrate all of you who made them possible—and the next chapter we will build together.

With gratitude,

A handwritten signature in black ink, reading 'Carolyn Thoma'. The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal line extending from the end.

LETTER FROM THE BOARD

It's hard to believe that we've been working on Whitemore CCC for a decade now. Our goal was to create a place where people can gather, enjoy nature, gardens, and the arts and music in a natural setting. We wanted to promote health and provide delicious food, some of which is sourced directly from our own property.

Under Carolyn's dedicated guidance, we've made significant progress in fulfilling our vision. She's been the driving force behind most of this achievement.

We want to express our gratitude to all those who contributed to making this vision a reality: the volunteers, artists, naturalists, and other partners. And of course, we owe a huge thank you to all the donors who have supported us.

Believe it or not, we're still at the beginning of our journey. As we grow and become more financially stable, we'll continue to expand our programming and bring in experts who can share their knowledge about the wonders of Whitemore. One of our next priorities is to establish an interpretive trail system.

Lastly, we want to extend my deepest gratitude to Carolyn, the entire Gala Planning Committee, and our volunteers for their exceptional planning, setup, and execution of a fantastic event.

Please continue to enjoy Whitemore, and thank you so much for your ongoing support.

Creating • Exhibiting • Connecting

For ten years, Whittemore has created a place where art and nature meet. Our galleries, workshops, artist talks, outdoor installations and Sculpture Garden have welcomed established and emerging artists while making art accessible to our community. From exhibitions such as our current THEN & NOW to our extraordinary recently installed Harry Gordon 28,000-pound sculpture, "Oscar," art continues to transform the way we experience Whittemore.

Protecting • Restoring • Stewarding

Conservation is at the heart of Whittemore. Across our 180 acres and 11 miles of trails, a decade of thoughtful stewardship is helping restore a healthy, diverse ecosystem. By removing invasives, planting native trees and plants, restoring meadows, supporting pollinators and protecting natural habitats, we are seeing the land respond - native plants are flourishing and native wildlife is returning. Our trails allow the community to experience firsthand the landscape we work so hard to protect.

At Whittemore, Food Makes Friends is about much more than what is on the plate. It is about what happens when we gather around a table and break bread together. Rooted in the seasons and our connection to the land, Food Makes Friends brings together local farms, gardens, artisan producers, chefs and our community through shared meals and experiences. From our Earth Oven and Fire Rig used at Garden Concerts, art exhibits and all our celebrations, food has become another way Whittemore creates connection — one table, one meal and one friendship at a time.

A Special Thank You to Zack Zamarra

As we celebrate 10 years of Whitemore, there is one very special member of our Whitemore family who cannot be with us tonight.

For the past five years, Zack Zamarra has been my Strategic Assistant, and we have had the privilege of watching him grow from a quiet, curious volunteer into a confident, capable and compassionate young man who became someone I and all of Whitemore - could truly depend upon.

Zack has touched nearly every corner of Whitemore, always willing to step in, work hard and do whatever was needed. But more than what he accomplished, we will remember his integrity, humility and genuine commitment to our community.

Zack isn't with us tonight because he is beginning an exciting new chapter at the University of Michigan.

Zack, thank you for five incredible years. Watching you grow has been one of the great privileges of my time at Whitemore. You may be in Michigan tonight, but you will always have a place here.

Whitemore is better because you were part of it - and so am I.
